

SCIENCE HEALER WINSLOW'S CASE UP FOR A HEARING

Mrs. Benzercy Testifies for the County Medical Society About His Methods.

MANY FRIENDS IN COURT

Great Interest Taken in Proceedings by Members of the Christian Science Church.

There was another session of the continuous prosecution of Byron Winslow, Christian Science healer, in the Jefferson Market Police Court today before Magistrate Kernochan. The County Medical Society is the prosecutor, through its investigator, Mrs. Francis Benzercy.

Various stages of the complaint have shifted about from the Jefferson Market Court to the West Side Court and back again to the Jefferson Market Court. The charge is that Winslow practiced medicine without a license, and if it is the aim of the County Medical Society to press the case of Winslow and another healer named Cole to the highest courts for a construction of the law under which Christian Science healers now practice healing.

Winslow, well groomed, arrived in court with a throng of Christian Science friends and his counsel, H. D. Esterbrook. The County Medical Society was represented by John G. Dyer.

Her Story of a Healing.

Mrs. Benzercy was the only complaining witness called. She said that on March 12 last she called at the "treatment rooms" of Healer Winslow, No. 10 West Forty-second street and informed him that she was troubled with indigestion.

"I asked him," said Mrs. Benzercy, "Can you cure me by Christian Science treatment?" He replied: "Yes, I can heal you. God is perfect; we must be like God. We must be good, be sincere, be true. We are made in the image of God. God never made disease. We must be like God in every way."

The witness said she asked what the treatment cost.

"He replied," she said, "and I told him I would take a treatment. He said I would have to take a number of treatments."

Mrs. Benzercy says she assented to this and the treatment began. Winslow put three fingers of his hand to her forehead, told her to close her eyes and remain in that attitude for twenty minutes. When he opened her eyes again he gave Mrs. Benzercy a card and told her to go to the library and get a copy of "Science and Health." He wrote on the card the numbers of the pages he wished her to read.

"What happened then?" asked the counsel for the County Medical Society.

"Told Her to Remove Glasses."

"I paid him $2," replied the witness, "and he told me to come again. I returned on the 13th and he asked me how I felt. I told him I felt about the same distress as before. I told him I had tried no diet, but it didn't work."

Winslow repeated then that a diet was unnecessary.

"You can eat lobster, corn beef, cabbage, and everything you want to," said Winslow. "Your stomach will not know the difference."

"If my stomach doesn't, I do," Mrs. Benzercy said.

Winslow asked Mrs. Benzercy if she had read "Science and Health." She had not. Winslow gave her another treatment, telling her to close her eyes and remain in that attitude for twenty minutes.

Before Mrs. Benzercy was called to the stand Attorney Dyer addressed the healer.

"Mr. Winslow," he said, "you Christian Scientists are not very anxious to test the law. Why don't you pick out some prominent Christian Scientist for the purpose of testing the law and seeing where you stand?"

"You might try God," replied Mr. Winslow reverently. Mr. Dyer had no more to say till he called the witness.

The Story April Told

When March winds ceased blowing and the balm of Spring came in the air a restlessness to move into more suitable apartments, houses, suburban cottages, and into more roomy, light and better located stores, offices, &c., took hold of New Yorkers with a vim.

Landlords anticipated and provided well for this looked-for emergency.

Knowing from years of experience how best to reap the great Spring harvest of tenants, they had

An April Story with a Moral

WASHINGTON FEARS FOR AMERICANS IN PERIL IN MEXICO

Taft May Rush Warships to Protect Hundreds at Mercy of Rebel Bandits.

TWO REPORTED SLAIN.

Alarming Report Sent by Ambassador Wilson Causes Stir in Official Circles.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Increasing anxiety, approaching alarm is felt by Administration officials for the safety of Americans in Mexico, especially in the vicinity of Acapulco on the west coast. Conditions described as intolerable were reported to the State Department today by Ambassador Wilson, and it is probable that naval forces will be ordered to Acapulco at once.

State Department officials plainly were worried by the disquieting advice received from the American Ambassador despite the fact that Mr. Wilson said the Mexican War Department had sent earnest telegraphic instructions to the commanding officer at Acapulco to afford all possible aid to Americans.

Two Americans Slain.

The matter was taken up by Mr. Wilson as the result of the report that the two sons of Judge Melvin Goodman had been murdered by alleged revolutionary bandits at their father's hacienda, Buena Suceso, not far from Acapulco. The neighborhood of the reported crime is said to be overrun by bandits who owe no allegiance to any responsible organization.

Mr. Wilson wired also that Americans in Mexico City are becoming alarmed and that their unrest is due in some measure to apprehension of the failure of peace negotiations and a consequent prevalence of anarchy.

That the withdrawal of the American naval vessels sent to visit the Mexican coast cities was a mistake is now privately admitted in official circles. They were originally sent southward on the usual practice cruises, and if it should become necessary to again despatch them to Mexican waters there could be no concealment of the real purpose of their movements.

The reference of the State Department to the "intolerable conditions" existing at Acapulco is taken in some quarters as a sign of the intention of the Government to despatch cruisers to that port and to Mazatlan as well. There are a number of warships at San Diego, but the distance from that port to Acapulco and Mazatlan is about a thousand miles, and the voyage would consume four or five days at least.

The State Department may await the outcome of the peace negotiations at Juarez before ordering ships south.

Battles Impending.

Official reports received here today indicate threatened battles in various parts of Mexico. Consul Voelter, at Saltillo, reported that an attack was expected on that city today. The revolutionists were bringing up their forces and had cut railway communication with the city. They stopped a train near Saltillo Wednesday, capturing 900 rifles and 40,000 cartridges.

Consul Garrett at Nueva Laredo, reported that Gen. Trevino is leading a force against Sabinas, eighty miles away.

Consul Miller at Tampico declared trouble was expected there by the end of the week, while the consul at Vera Cruz word of an impending attack on Orizaba.

The reports to the State Department indicate that the revolutionists are in control of practically the entire State of Sinaloa. At Tonala, on the Gulf coast, a band of twenty revolutionists bound and carried off the local judge, who was stopping at a hotel, and also intercepted a small band in which Mexicans were leaving the place. American citizens were not molested.

DOUGLAS, ARIZ., May 5.—Official advice to the Mexican Consul says that Mazatlan is still in the hands of the Federal forces, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. The Consul states that the rebels attacked Mazatlan desperately on May 1. The gunboats Tampico and Zanzibar anchored in Mazatlan harbor, are reported to have thrown shells into the rebel lines, doing terrible execution.

The Americans in Mazatlan are said to number one thousand. The town is bottled up and none can escape. Mazatlan is one of the ports to which American warships are expected to be sent.

DIAS MUST RESIGN, REBEL ULTIMATUM IN EFFECT TODAY.

EL PASO, Tex., May 5.—Cherishing the hope that history might repeat itself and that the same Gen. Diaz who crushed the French invasion at the battle of Puebla would choose this time to again save his country now by a public announcement of his intention to resign, the President has held on for many years. Insurrection leaders at the Madrano camp across the Rio Grande waited expectantly today for news from Mexico City.

Judge Carbajal, the Government peace envoy, to whom the three insurgent commissioners yesterday presented Gen. Madrano's suggestion that President Diaz make public the private assurance already given of his intention to resign, remained in his room at a hotel here to receive telegraphic instructions as to how to deal with the rebel demand. Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the rebel peace commission, also decided to stay in El Paso until Judge Carbajal should advise him of a reply from Mexico City.

LONE WOMAN TAKES 40,000-MILE JAUNT THROUGH EUROPE.

Miss Jennie Wilson of No. 108 West Forty-seventh street, a pretty young woman, arrived on the Lusitania today with her French pug bulldog "Teddy," she has just completed a 40,000-mile tour through Europe, unaccompanied, and is going back soon for another solitary trip.

BLUECOAT FIRED BY GAYNOR'S ORDER PUT BACK BY COURT

Frederick C. Gerhardt Restored to the Force by Order of Appellate Division.

Frederick C. Gerhardt, the policeman who was dismissed from the police force on Feb. 7, 1910, by Commissioner William F. Baker for indiscriminate clubbing and in whose prosecution Mayor Gaynor was active, was reinstated by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, today. The Court which was unanimous in its decision, declared that there was no evidence shown at the trial before Commissioner Baker which proved conclusively that Gerhardt used his club without cause or provocation.

The charges against Gerhardt grew out of an arrest he tried to make in a saloon in West Thirtieth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, on Jan. 1, 1910. He testified at his trial that he heard two shots and tried to get into the saloon, but was prevented by John T. Moore, the proprietor. A fight started and Moore, Oberst, the bartender and Hayes, a crony of Oberst and a habitue of the saloon, were arrested, but with damage to all concerned. Gerhardt wanted for making a false arrest and assault before Commissioner Baker, Moore, Oberst and Hayes all appearing against him. He was dismissed.

Gerhardt then presented a petition to the Appellate Division for a writ of review of his trial and asked to be reinstated. The petition set forth that he had simply done his duty and it was his belief that the charges were made "under the direction of Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor of the City of New York, who conducted an ex parte examination and investigation at which your petitioner (Gerhardt) was not present and which resulted in the preferring of the charges hereinbefore set forth."

The Appellate Division in its opinion says: "It was proven at Gerhardt's trial that he had two black eyes, many bruises and was sick and under a physician's care to such an extent. The story of the case, as told by Gerhardt, is a story of a man who was beaten and who was in a state of distress. The determination of the Commissioner on a disputed question of fact is not to be lightly set aside, but in the view we take of the evidence, our duty under the statute is plain. The determination should be reversed, with 25 cents and disbursements and the relator reinstated."

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

If you rescued a beautiful girl from danger, and—
If you were invited to spend that night at her father's house, and—
If in the dead of night you should hear strange sounds and get up to find your door locked on the outside, and—
If the door should suddenly be unlocked and you should be ordered to leave the house AT ONCE, without waiting for daylight, and—
If no one would explain such strange treatment to a guest and a rescuer of Beauty in Distress, and—
If you had already fallen in love with the girl and were stirred up over the mystery that surrounded her—
What would you do?

It's ten to one you would not do anything that would throw you into such a tangle of strange adventures as did the hero of "THE PROFESSOR'S MYSTERY."

This is the biggest mystery story of the decade. It will begin in Wednesday's EVENING WORLD, May 10.

DRIVES 2 BLACKS WITH BOY'S BODY HANGING ON WHEEL

Truckman, Unconscious of Accident, Keeps Going With Dead Child on Wagon.

Morris Rosen, four years old, of No. 425 Sutter avenue, East New York, was killed today when his body was caught in the spokes of a rear wheel of a truck and crushed against the axle. The driver did not know the child had been struck, and continued carrying the dead body for two blocks before a passerby called his attention to the gruesome attachment on the wheel.

The little fellow was sitting on a curb at Sutter avenue and Powell street watching some older boys play ball. The ball rolled away toward the spot where the child was sitting, and he got it and threw it back to the street players.

Then he stepped backward into the rear wheels of a barrel truck driven by William F. Youngs of No. 200 Norman avenue, Greenpoint. The wheel passed over the body and then carried it upward to the axle, where it was tragically crushed.

The accident did not attract the attention of the other boys. The driver did not notice the jar as the wheel passed over the child and proceeded calmly down the street. For two blocks the truck went its way, the driver ignorant of his ghastly burden.

Then Samuel Shapiro of No. 114 Belmont avenue happened to glance toward the truck wheel. He saw the little body, crushed and bleeding, serving as a block for the heavy wheel. Shapiro called to the driver and told him to stop.

The driver got down and took the body from the spokes. Dr. Messer was called from St. Mary's Hospital, but he had nothing to do other than direct the disposition of the body.

STEEPLECHASE OWNER WOULD TIE UP THATCHER.

Tilyou Asks for Injunction Against Interference of Superintendent of Buildings.

George C. Tilyou of Steeplechase Park, Coney Island, through Lawyer Van Thun, before Justice Aspinall, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, today asked for an injunction against John Thatcher, Superintendent of Buildings for Brooklyn.

Thatcher, Mr. Van Thun said, had been harassing Mr. Tilyou with orders for changes in his resort, though it had been running for fourteen years without an accident. Tilyou, the lawyer said, had made all the changes in the Steeplechase course which Thatcher quipped and had supplied the department with plans. Thatcher threatened to send men to rip out some of the work and change other parts.

Assistant Corporation Counsel O'Brien said that not only were the Steeplechase horses dangerous, but Mr. Tilyou had built other devices without getting a license from the department as the "human squizzer" and the "human bagatelle board."

Justice Aspinall said he would give Mr. Tilyou an injunction against Thatcher to come to terms.

SHOOTS OLD ENEMY AS SEQUEL TO VENDETTA.

Rocco Stimulus, stimulated by chianti, remonstrated this morning, the police charge, that he had come from Sicily about a month ago to fulfill the vendetta he had sworn against Vincent Moneria, a townsmen with whom he had quarreled before the latter sailed away to become foreman of a barber shop at No. 66 Smith street, Brooklyn.

Obtaining a revolver at his home, No. 275 Hamilton street, he went to where Moneria was just opening the shop and fired away. One bullet slipped Moneria in the left leg and the other passed between his two lips, clipping a bit of skin off both.

Moneria hit Stimpus's head as Stimulus fired at him, and the bullet, after passing between the lips, passed over his shoulder so closely as to burn the cloth.

Stimulus was arrested, and Moneria sent to the Brooklyn Hospital.

50,000 Children Plant Trees.

Thirty thousand school children of Paterson, N. J., under their teachers and principals, took an active part in today's celebration of Arbor Day. To every child, both in the public and parochial schools, was given a tree to plant. The trees, which were the gift of a Paterson firm, were delivered at the various schools.

21 NATIONS HONOR CARNEGIE WITH MEDAL OF GOLD

Gift Is Presented to Mark His Efforts to Promote Universal Peace.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Andrew Carnegie today received what he called his greatest mark of honor when twenty-one American republics bestowed upon him a gold medal bearing on one side the words "Benefactor of Humanity," and on the other, "The American Republics to Andrew Carnegie."

According to John Barrett, Director-General of the Pan-American Union, it was the first time in history that such a tribute from so many nations had been paid to an individual. Senor de Zamacona, the Mexican Ambassador, made the speech of presentation; Secretary of State Knox presided and President Taft spoke in eulogy of the gifts.

Which Mr. Carnegie has made for the cause of peace on this hemisphere and throughout the world. Members of the diplomatic corps and men high in official life filled the hall for the Pan-American Union Building, where the ceremonies were held, and for the erection of which Mr. Carnegie gave almost a million dollars.

In accepting the medal, Mr. Carnegie told of his feelings on being informed of the honor conferred upon him by the Pan-American Conference at Buenos Ayres.

"Truly, my friends," he said, "I never before felt so completely overwhelmed and crushed as I do now upon me that the honor which the conference had voted to confer was without parallel; 100 millions of people, forming 21 sovereign nations, bestowing upon me an honor the like of which had never before been bestowed upon a human being."

"I felt as if I should like to sing into the ground, conscious that I could never have the audacity to accept it, but as the days passed Hamlet's words came to me of the poor player that after his hour is over, must return to his owner and dignity. The poorer their merits, the larger will be your bounty."

B. R. T. PLAN OF OPERATING SUBWAYS NOT YET READY.

Difficulties Intervene, and It Cannot Be Submitted Until Some-time Next Week.

It had been expected that the B. R. T. plan of operation of the subway extensions would be fully arranged for presentation at a conference this afternoon, but difficulties intervened. In consequence the submission of the complete B. R. T. plan has been postponed until next week.

Today's conference was held at the rooms of the Public Service Commission and was presided over by President Williams of the B. R. T. Directors Walter G. Oakman and Nicholas F. Brady, the members of the Public Service Commission and Borough Presidents McAneny, Miller and Cromwell comprising the Transit Committee of the Board of Estimate. The session lasted half an hour.

At its conclusion Mr. McAneny said: "The only subject for final settlement is the matter of the present arrangement of the parts of the B. R. T. system that are to be merged with the new extensions. We have found that the determination of these matters is a complicated affair. The B. R. T. people have promised to get a statement together for submission next week, following our meeting with the Interborough officials, who are to submit their offer on Tuesday. We hope to be able to make our report to the Board of Estimate a week from next Thursday."

ARREST FUGITIVE FOR MURDER AS HE PREPARED TO FLEE

Detectives, After Long Chase, Capture John Gill Before He Can Sail Away.

Just as he was packing his trunk early to-day preparatory to sailing for Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, John Gill, fifty years old, was arrested in his home at No. 25 Washington street, charged with the murder of James H. Miller of No. 16 De Witt street last March.

Detectives Landrigan and McNally made the arrest. Landrigan has been hunting for Gill since March 1, when he stabbed Miller in a saloon at No. 31 Washington street. Miller was a truck driver, twenty-seven years old. He and Gill quarrelled over a dog. Gill wanted to fight, but Miller refused, telling him that he would be ashamed to fight with a man as old as Gill.

The young truck driver then left Gill and went to the saloon on Washington street. Gill followed him, and without warning attacked him with the knife. He inflicted two wounds in the abdomen from which the truck driver died on March 11.

The slayer fled from New York. Detective Landrigan was put on the case and traced the fugitive to many places in Connecticut and New Jersey, always arriving a day too late. Landrigan got to Seaucus, N. J., yesterday night before learning that Gill left the night before headed for New York.

Detectives went to the man's home last night, but Gill could not be found. The house was watched all night and early to-day Landrigan and McNally broke into the flat where Gill had formerly lived with his sister. The fugitive and several of his relatives were packing a trunk. Gill had a steamship ticket for Buenos Ayres in his pocket good on a vessel that sails this afternoon. He was taken to the Tombs Police Court and then before Coroner Winterbottom, who committed him to the Tombs without bail.
